Violence In State Marks Milk Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Charges that some of its milk drivers have been intimidated were leveled Friday by the Michigan Milk Producers Association against the National Farmers Organization which is engaged in a milk holdout.

The association said some of its 8,539 members and drivers of milk tank trucks have been threatened.

The NFO strike, called Wednesday night in 23 states, is aimed at boosting milk prices. The NFO is seeking an additional dollar for each 100 pounds of milk, or two cents per quart. Farmers now receive $5.50 per 100 pounds.

Combat Failure
It "doesn't seem to be working and new tactics are being employed," said an association spokesman.

Association members are sending their milk to market, the spokesman said, adding, "We are worried that things could get out of hand."

Meanwhile in Lansing, Lt. Gov. William Milliken, acting in place of Gov. George Romney who was in Washington, issued this statement:

"I have been advised by the director of the Michigan State Police that there have been scattered incidents of violence and harassment in connection with transportation of milk. These incidents appear to have resulted from the recent action of the National Farmers Organization in calling upon farmers to withhold milk from market.

Under Michigan law, it is a criminal offense for any person, by force, to stop or hinder the operation of any vehicle transporting farm or commercial products within the state."

Milliken urged that all involved in the dispute use "restraint, and obey the law."

One tanker truck reportedly was hijacked southwest of Flint Friday and its 5,000 gallons of milk dumped.

State Police at the Flint post said farmer Clifton Berlin of Gaines Township reported a gang of unidentified men commandeered a truck picking up milk at his farm, drove it off and dumped its contents.

The truck driver, Patrick Lyon of Fenton, was unharmed, police said.

Claims Big Effect

In Livingston County, a group of striking farmers reportedly stopped a milk tank truck in Inosco Township. Sheriff's deputies were called to the scene.

"There was no trouble," said Sheriff Lawrence Gehring. "The farmers said they were just checking and the driver said he wasn't threatened."

"Everyone agreed that those who don't want to sell their milk don't have to but those who do have the right to sell it."

Ray Nielsen, state NFO representative, claimed the withholding of milk from producers is 80 per cent effective and contends that some counties are 100 per cent dry.

Ancient Romans Lose Their Marble Heads

ROME (AP) — Statues of ancient Romans have been losing their marble heads and experts think it may be the work of specialists trying to fill orders from collectors abroad.

The Superintendency of Antiquities and Fine Arts said nine ancient statues have been decapitated in the past two years. Department experts doubted that it was the work of vandals or souvenir-hunting tourists. They said it seemed to be done by specialists filling specific orders.

Besides these specialized thefts, Italy suffers a steady drain of millions of dollars worth of other art and archaeological treasures taken from churches, museums and private collections.

Museum guards have been increased and safety systems — including closed circuit television — have been installed in some art centers, but the problem of keeping heads on the statues presents unusual difficulties.

Some of the statues are in guarded museums, but many decorate parks and city squares, government buildings and private villas.

The wave of head snatching began in April 1965 when statues of Hermes, a toga-draped Roman and one of the philosopher Humanacos lost their heads in Rome's Villa Borghese Park. Its miles of winding roads are difficult to guard at night. Another Roman statue lost its head in the same park last April.

Unless the missing parts are recovered, the statues remain headless, but they do not look unusually out of place.

Museums, parks and collections throughout Italy have hundreds of statues as armless as Venus de Milo and as headless as the winged Victory of Samothrace. Time and earlier vandals left them that way.

Red Guns Down 2 Yank Planes, Hit Destroyer

SAIGON (AP) — Two American planes were downed and a Navy destroyer was hit by Communist coastal gunfire off North Vietnam Friday as the war in both North and South Vietnam assumed new intensity, the U.S. military command reported today.

The destroyer Stoddard took a hole in her side above the waterline as she patrolled along the southern end of North Vietnam 25 miles northwest of Dong Hoi. There were no casualties, a spokesman said, and the ship continued "fully operational."

One of the downed planes was a propeller-driven Navy Skyraider, which was shot down over North Vietnam Friday, making it the 469th announced plane lost over the North. The pilot was rescued.

The U.S. Command reported scattered ground fighting throughout South Vietnam with the heaviest skirmishes in the central highlands. American planes continued bombing raids over North Vietnam, despite heavy weather.

In other developments, the U.S. mission in Saigon today officially pinpointed North Vietnamese Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh as the leader of all Communist forces in South Vietnam. Thanh also holds top posts in the political and military councils of the Hanoi government.

The statement by the U.S. mission was the first which actually named the long-shadowy Communist chieftain although the United States has always maintained that the Hanoi regime was directing all Communist activities in South Vietnam.

Conscience Is Clear Says Dodd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political career and reputation of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd hang in the balance as the Senate ethics committee secretly weighs accusations of financial wrongdoing against him.

The committee's public probe of Dodd — the first Senate proceeding of its kind since the McCarthy era — ended Friday with the Connecticut Democrat saying "my conscience is clear."

Emotionally but quietly, the white-haired Dodd told the committee: "I don't believe any man is going to look me in the eye and say I've done wrong."

On that note the committee adjourned after five days of taking testimony that dealt primarily with allegations that Dodd used contributions to his political campaigns for personal expenses.

An earlier round of hearings last summer explored his relationship with Chicago public relations man Julius Klein, a registered agent for West German business interests. Dodd is accused of making several trips to Germany to help Klein retain clients there.

The ethics committee, composed of three Democrats and three Republicans, may meet next week but Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said it will be "some weeks, at least" before it reports its findings and recommendations to the Senate.

A wide range of possibilities is open. It could find Dodd had done nothing improper, or it could recommend a reprimand, censure, or expulsion from the Senate. It also could call for action against him by the Justice Department.

But the 59-year-old senator, after undergoing more than two hours of questioning, told the committee he is sure he's done nothing wrong.

There were some indications that the committee may go beyond the Dodd case itself in its report and incorporate proposals for a code of ethics for senators and Senate employees and overhauling the corrupt practices act and other laws dealing with campaign financing.

However, it was understood no decision on this has been reached.

Maroons Win State Crown

The Menominee Maroons captured the Michigan High School Class B basketball championship at Jemison Field house in East Lansing today, slipping Willow Run by a 63-59 margin in the title game.

Bob Johnson, a 5 foot 9 inch sub, came off the bench to score two clutching free throws with seven seconds in the game. Pat Miller, classmate, led the Maroons with 28 points.

Assassination Inquiry Brings 1st Court Case

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A three-judge panel ruled in a preliminary hearing Friday that wealthy retired business leader Clay L. Shaw should become the first man to stand trial concerning the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In ordering the trial for Shaw on a charge of conspiracy to murder the president, Judge Bernard J. Bagert said at the conclusion of the four-day hearing, "This court finds sufficient evidence has been presented to establish probable cause that a crime has been committed."

The ruling came on Shaw's 54th birthday.

The decision was a first-round victory for gun-toting Jim Garrison, this town's 6-foot-6 district attorney. Garrison started the world a month ago with a statement that he had "solved" the Kennedy assassination, would make arrests, and would obtain convictions.

Preliminary Hearing
Garrison, unorthodox and controversial in his five years as district attorney, took an unusual step in asking for the preliminary hearing — a tactic usually resorted to by defense lawyers.

The next step: "I will file a bill of information," Garrison drewled to newsmen shortly after the panel announced its unanimous decision. He would not say when the action would be taken.

Arraignment and trial came afterward. No dates were set.

"The district attorney selects the date and time a person will be tried," said Judge Bagert, who had asked two of his fellow Criminal District Court judges to sit with him at the preliminary hearing because of its importance.

Six Years For Free
"The state has six years to prove this case," said defense attorney William Wegmann, in his impassioned plea to the court to throw out the charges.

After the decision, Bill Gurvich, chief investigator for Garrison's office, told newsmen: "We won. If we had needed more goods we would have brought them in."

Perry Raymond Russo, 25, was Garrison's star witness. Russo, a Baton Rouge insurance salesman, told the court he was present in the New Orleans apartment of David W. Ferrie in mid-September 1963 and heard Lee Harvey Oswald, Shaw and Ferrie plotting to assassinate Kennedy.

The plan, Russo testified, involved "triangulation of cross-fire," diversionary shooting, a possible flight to Mexico and Cuba, the sacrificing of one man as a scapegoat to permit the others to escape.

Only One Alive
Of the three alleged conspirators, only Shaw, who stepped down as managing director of the International Trade Mart here 16 months ago, is alive. Oswald was shot fatally by Jack Ruby, in the Dallas police station two days after the Nov. 22, 1963 assassination of Kennedy.

Ferrie, former airline pilot with a homosexual record, was found dead in bed last Feb. 22. The coroner ruled his death resulted from natural causes — an aneurysm of a blood vessel in the brain.

Shaw, a rugged 6-foot-2, gray-haired man with erect military bearing, was calm and stic when the decision was read.

Charge "Fantastic"
Deepening lines in his face and bloodshot eyes, however, showed the strain he has been under since his arrest March 1.

When arrested, Shaw called Garrison's charge "fantastic." He denied having any part in a

Guam Meeting Concentrates On Peace Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson embarks tonight on his second trans-Pacific journey in five months — striving once more to emphasize his dedication to the works of peace in Vietnam.

High administration officials insisted they expect no major military decisions to emerge from Johnson's two days of talks in Guam — about 8,250 miles from Washington.

They said the big question instead would be how to advance the political, social and economic development of sections of South Vietnam wrested from Communist control.

There has been considerable speculation that Johnson might use the occasion of his Guam visit to elevate Gen. William C. Westmoreland to full command of all American forces in Southeast Asia. But officials said they do not expect such a development.

They also said they don't think Westmoreland would choose this occasion to ask for more troops. But they said that was a matter for the general to decide.

Top Officials To Meet
The White House said Johnson hoped to take off on his 18-hour, one-stop flight to Guam around midnight after spending all day and evening courting the nation's governors.

Perhaps for security reasons, there was no word on whether Johnson's big jet would make a refueling stop in Alaska or Hawaii. Moreover, nothing was being said here about where Johnson would be quartered on Guam, which is little more than an American military bastion.

The President will meet with top American civilian and military leaders based in Vietnam and with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and many of the other generals making up the military junta that holds power in Saigon.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara also will be on hand.

New Team
Any policy decisions announced after the session, officials here indicated, likely would deal with changes in the Vietnam "pacification" effort — the attempt to claim ground from the Communists and make a start toward enlisting the interest of the inhabitants in elemental democracy.

One official said the Guam meeting has taken on special importance because of the impending replacement of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge by Ellsworth Bunker, 72-year old diplomatic trouble-shooter.

The top civilian leadership in Saigon on the American side will be reshuffled in the weeks ahead and, one top official said, a central point of the Guam talks would be to have "the old team and the new take stock together."

REP. JOSEPH Kowalski, the House Democratic leader, today remained in very critical condition in Lansing General Hospital. Kowalski suffered a massive cerebral hemorrhage Thursday. His wife and four children hurried to his bedside.

Federal Grants To States Will Quadruple-LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told the nation's governors today that the country is undergoing "birth pangs of a fundamentally new process" in government in which grants of federal funds to states are expected to leap from $15 billion this year to $60 billion in five years.

Forty-nine governors of the states and territories met with Johnson and Cabinet officials in the White House Fish Room at the start of a day of discussions and briefings.

Those in Republican ranks had indicated ahead of time they were inclined to balk at anything resembling a formal endorsement of the President's policies in Vietnam. There was no question, though, that Johnson would welcome such a declaration, as he has in the past, in advance of his departure to-night for Guam.

Johnson said that the nation faces problems of a magnitude undreamed of by the drafters of the Constitution — problems in education, poverty, urban blight, law enforcement, transportation and air and water pollution.

Essentially, he said, these are tasks for states and their communities, because the federal government itself cannot teach the child, police the street or rebuild the neighborhood. Yet, he said, these are problems few states can meet alone, and thus a practical, working, federal-state partnership has been imposed by the need of responding to all these problems.

"One measure of the impact of recent social legislation on state government is the level of funds appropriated for federal grants in aid," the President said. "In 1959 these totaled just $30 million. This year they are expected to total $15 billion, and in just five years they could quadruple."

Girl Rescued From Deep Well

VOTAW, Tex. (AP) — Tiny Theresa Fregia was lifted to safety in a bold, precision-like rescue early today, 8 hours and 55 minutes after she tumbled 28 feet into an abandoned water well.

The 2-year-old girl was sobbing and smeared with red clay as rescue worker Ransom Bill of Houston brought her from the chilly depths of the narrow well at 2:25 a.m.

A loud cheer went up from more than 300 workmen who had labored for hours to save the child.

Theresa was placed on a stretcher, put in an ambulance and rushed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Beaumont.

Theresa's grandmother, Opal Allmarque, said the girl fell into the well about 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Marquette Man Held For Murder Of Infant Son

MARQUETTE (AP) — A 38-year-old service station attendant was held on an open charge of murder today in the death of his 2½-month-old baby son.

The defendant, Richard Beauchamp of Harvey, was lodged in the Marquette County jail without bond pending a preliminary justice court hearing March 27.

Beauchamp is accused of beating his son, James. The baby was found dead in his crib in the family home Friday by state police who said they noticed several bruises about the head and chest.

Dr. Leonard Carefoot, county medical examiner, said an autopsy disclosed that death was due to an intercranial hemorrhage resulting from a multiple skull fracture.

$421,530 U.P. Project

Youth Corps Helps Studies, Training

The police chief of an Upper Peninsula city recently wrote to Neighborhood Youth Corps Director Boris Martysz to praise the work of a 17-year-old NYC trainee who is employed at the police station under the program.

A few months earlier, the same boy was on the other side of the bars at this same police station. Through the NYC program, he was placed in a job at the law enforcement agency and is now, according to the police chief, "making great strides to get ahead."

NYC program is beginning its third month of operation. UP-CAP secured a contract in the amount of $421,530 from the Department of Labor and assumes sole responsibility for the program; but has delegated the actual administration of NYC to Northern Michigan University.

15 Hour Work Week
The program calls for work slots for 150 in-school, and 75 out-of-school youths between the ages of 16 and 21. There are 240 additional summer work slots. All slots with the exception of the special summer trainee program are now filled.

In-school trainees, who are referred to the program primarily by school counselors and principals, work a maximum of 15 hours per week in such jobs as school, library and food aides.

Trainees are eligible for the program if their family income is below established minimums set by the Department of Labor.

Out-of-school trainees may work a maximum of 32 hours a week. They are referred to the program by churches, schools, welfare agencies and the Community Action Agencies.

Six Months Work
Both groups earn $1.25 per hour which is paid directly to the youth by the NYC program. Work sites may include any non-profit public or private agency which agrees to provide work supervision and training for the young people and who meets other wage and work condition requirements.

In-school students may continue in the program as long as they remain in school; out-of-school trainees may work for a maximum of six months.

The purpose of the NYC program is to provide financial assistance to disadvantaged in-school students to urge them to continue their education or to provide financial assistance to out-of-school youth to help them return to school, obtain vocational training or a permanent full-time job.

Three out-of-school trainees have already enrolled in vocational training programs, one

Dissent

The bright side of the Neighborhood Youth Corps program in the Upper Peninsula is presented in the accompanying article.

There is another side.

Some high school administrators are complaining that this program is raiding their schools and fostering drop-outs. They say that their program to keep students in school fails in some instances in the senior year — after years of special effort to keep boys in high school until they graduate — because they are "hired away" to the Youth Corps.

One administrator said: "The smart money senior with a jalopy to support is saying: 'All you have to do to get paid for going to school is to drop out.' We can't compete with that."

They suggest a screening of NYC applicants who have only a few months to go to graduation.

has returned to school and three others have obtained full-time employment.

U. P. Counselors
In a northern U. P. city, for example, an 18-year-old NYC youth was so successful in his part-time hospital aide job, his employer hired him at a much higher paying, full-time position at the hospital.

In another case, a 17-year-old NYC trainee returned to complete graduation requirements after spending a few weeks in the program and receiving counseling.

Counseling is an integral part of the NYC program. Each student receives guidance and vocational counseling throughout his working training experience.

Eight part-time counselors now serve the 15 U. P. counties. These counselors include: Otto DeWard, Newberry; Elbin Strom, Ironwood; Felix Margoni, Iron River; Norman LaBonte, Calumet; Dan Pearce, Marquette; Mrs. Lee Pappas, Manistique; Albert Poquette, Escanaba; and James Walter, Menominee.

CAA Program

As Martysz receives the names of prospective trainees from the Community Action Agencies and other sources, he distributes these names to the proper area counselor who visits and counsels with the students to see if they qualify for the program. If the student meets the requirements, a suitable work site is matched to the student's future interest and aptitudes.

"The Community Action Agencies play a very important role in the program," Martysz said. "They have secured many job sites, assisted the counselors through referrals and do a lot of the necessary leg work involved in the program."

Trainee reactions to the new program have been enthusiastic. Take the case of 19-year-old NYC trainee who quit high school in October with just three credits short of meeting graduation requirements.

Money For School

Coming from a large family, the youth needed money to stay in school. After joining the NYC program in January and taking a job with the maintenance crew at the Marquette Area Training Center, he has enrolled in night courses to complete requirements for graduation.

"The NYC program is great because I can work to make money and still have time to study for my night classes," he said. "Besides, I can learn some skills I can use in other jobs later on."

Another out-of-school NYC trainee is learning filing and typing in the job in the office of Robert Liberty, director of the Community Affairs Department of the Marquette Catholic Diocese.

Make It Bigger

She had worked previously as a waitress but likes her office job much better because it gives her a chance to meet people and to learn office procedures for future employment opportunities.

"This NYC program is really something," she said. "The counselors and everyone here really try to help you."

When asked how the program could be improved, one NYC trainee replied: "Make it bigger so more kids like me could have a chance to do something with their lives."

Another young girl wrote to Martysz: "Before I heard about the NYC, I thought nobody cared about us because we've been in trouble and had no job. But when the counselor talked to me, I really knew that there was someone who understood and cared about us kids."

County Nearing 1st Deadline On Reapportionment

By DAVE ANDREWS

The Delta County Board of Supervisors is running out of time.

According to Public Act 261 of 1966, the Board of Supervisors has only until April 10 to reapportion itself on a population basis. Failing to do so, the task will revert to a County Apportionment Commission which must complete the job by May 15.

And that, from all appearances, is what is going to happen.

So far, the Board of Supervisors has not made a single move toward doing the job itself. No committees have been established to consider the problem and reapportionment has not been broached in any recent meeting of the entire board.

Apparently, no supervisor wants to help cast the vote in a decision which might put another supervisor off the board. Yet, eventually the decision must come.

The law reads: "If at the expiration of the time as set for in this section a Board of Supervisors has not apportioned itself, the county apportionment commission shall proceed to apportion the county under provisions of this act."

Limited To 15
The act provides that a county with population from 10,001 to 50,000 shall apportion into not more than 15 single-member districts according to population. (Delta County has about 35,000 population. Its county board has 27 members.)

It also provides that all districts shall be contiguous and as nearly square as practical, depending on geography. No township or part thereof shall be combined with any city or part thereof into a single district, unless such combination is needed to meet a population standard, the act says. It continues that voting precincts shall be divided only if similarly necessary to meet a population requirement.

Gerrymandering a district to affect political advantage is outlawed.

Clerk To Convene

The apportionment commission will be composed of the County Clerk (William Butler), Prosecuting Attorney (Nicholas Chapek), County Treasurer (Anne Villeneuve) and the chairman of the two major political parties, Republican (Arthur Neiman) and Democrat (George St. Louis).

The County Clerk is empowered to convene the commission under the state act, which also provides that three members would constitute a quorum and that action is by majority vote. All meetings of the commission must be open to the public.

Delta County's current 27-member Board of Supervisors has one from each of the 14 townships, nine from Escanaba and four from Gladstone.

In any reapportionment plan based on population, Escanaba's representation would increase from its current one third to just short of half of the membership of the board. A plan based on population would also balance representation in the townships. Currently, Wells Township, for example, with over 3,000 population is represented by only one supervisor, the same as townships with only several hundred population.

Voter May Act

If the apportionment commission of the county fails to act by May 15, any registered voter of the county may submit a plan to the commission for approval. The commission must then accept one of the plans submitted.

Likewise, if the commission does file a plan in the county clerk's office, any registered voter may, within 30 days of filing, challenge the plan and ask a review by the Court of Appeals to determine if it meets the requirements of the laws of the state.

Park Timberland In Danger Again, Says Department

There's a new threat to the Porcupine Mountain State Park area in Senate Bill No. 134, reports the Department of Conservation, noting that this is only the latest in efforts to "exploit the resource values" of the 57,000-acre tract near Ontonagon.

The bill proposes to transfer authority over the Porcupine Mountain area to Michigan Technological University from the Department of Conservation.

The Department opposes the bill because:

"It is questionable whether Michigan Tech has a trained staff capable of assuming responsibility of administering, maintaining and operating such a large park area that in 1966 hosted over 169,000 visitors."

Reduce Wilderness

"The University already operates large forest management research installations in the Upper Peninsula, and if additional lands are necessary there are virtually thousands of acres of suitable lands in the vicinity of the school."

Observers in Lansing, including Gene Little, outdoor editor of the Lansing State Journal, describes the bill as another attempt to "log off the great majority of the virgin timber now standing in the Porcupine Mountain State Park."

"There's a big hooker in the bill," writes Little.

"It would reduce the number of acres of wilderness from 37,000 to 5,000 and would force a University to plan and implement a multiple-use development of the remaining 52,000 acres."

Little believes the wilderness aspect of the Porcupines, for which the area was originally purchased by the Legislature, would be lost if Senate Bill No. 134 is approved.

Loss Of Revenues
"A stump is a stump even if it is caused by a college professor," Little continues. "A road is a road even if it is built by the best contractors of a nation. An ax is an ax, even though it is wielded by a simple logger or by a senator."

"But a wilderness area is a wilderness area simply because man has chosen to leave it as it was created. Is there any great crime in choosing to leave trees alone?"

The Department of Conservation in its analysis of the proposed legislation finds there would be a loss of revenues to the funds needed to develop park facilities.

"There would also be a loss of revenue from camping and skiing which contribute to the general fund."

The Department of Conservation has had years of experience and many qualified staff employees in the administration of state parks. The University has no such staff or experience and yet would be taking over one of the biggest parks in the Midwest.

The Porcupine Mountain State Park has "great significance for the preservation of natural beauty, for extensive types of recreation, nature and conservation education, and historical values," says the Department. It is administered in a multiple-use concept for the enjoyment of the public, and this would be threatened if the bill introduced by Sen. Joseph Mack (D-Ironwood) is approved.

Smelt Runs Off To Late Start

Chances are smelt dippers will be off to a late start this year, according to the Conservation Department, although the situation could change in a hurry with a spell of mild weather.

Usually the silvery fish begin their runs into Lower Peninsula streams around April 20. This year runs may be a week or ten days beyond that date.

In the past, Upper Peninsula streams have been invaded about two weeks later than those in the Lower Peninsula. There's no reason for the pattern to change this spring.

Smelt runs are determined not by the calendar, but by water temperatures. When Great Lakes water reaches the 42 to 50 degree range, the fish begin their upstream spawning runs.

Snowmobiles To Race Sunday At Gladstone

A large field of snowmobiles and drivers was expected to begin arriving in Gladstone today for Delta County's first snowmobile race program scheduled to begin at 1 p. m. Sunday at the Gladstone Yacht Harbor.

Registration for drivers is scheduled at the Yacht Harbor from 10 a. m. to noon tomorrow.

The program is being sponsored by the Gladstone Yacht Club.

Bob Heynssens of Gladstone, who was instrumental with other snowmobile enthusiasts in organizing the derby, said he has had inquiries from drivers all over the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin for the event, which is the only snowmobile program scheduled Sunday in the region.

He indicated that as many as 200 drivers and machines could turn out.

Format Changed

Because of the large response, Heynssens said the format of the program has been changed to include two classes for modified machines, plus the open class. Original plans had called for only an open class race for the modified machines.

Competition is also scheduled in four stock machine divisions and a ladies "Powder Puff" event is planned.

Racing will be on a time basis through three separate courses driven continuously.

Heynssens said an oval course will be set up on Little Bay de Noc, an obstacle course in Van Cleve Park and a cross-country course across the bay to Stonington and back.

Drivers will run five laps on the oval course, come back on the harbor channel ice to the obstacle course in the park, then start on the cross-country jaunt. The cross-country course will run south on Little Bay de Noc toward the Terrace, then across the bay to the Lighthouse on Stonington.

Drivers will run from there through the woods to Twin Springs park and then back across the bay to the finish line.

Need 20 Minutes

Heynssens said it is expected that drivers will need about 20 minutes to complete the entire run.

The committee plans to use trees as obstacles in Van Cleve park, marking turns with flags. Fires using tires which burn with black smoke will be used to mark turns on the cross-country layout.

Cash prizes will be offered to the first three finishers in each class. Including the ladies race, a total of eight classes will be run.

Members of the sponsoring Gladstone Yacht Club and snowmobile enthusiasts hope that Sunday's program will be the preliminary to a "major" race program next year.

Heynssens said the group hopes to be able to obtain a sanction from the National Snowmobile Club for a program next year and placement on the Club's calendar of events, guaranteeing a date without conflict with other sanctioned races in the area to insure a large field of entries.

Surviving are, his widow, Hannah; four daughters, Mrs. Robert Lobbe and Maybelle of Milwaukee, Mrs. Louis Nelson and Mrs. Clarence Nelson of Escanaba; three sons, Orville of Milwaukee, Donald Anderson of Escanaba, Wallace Anderson of Soo Hill and 13 grandchildren. One sister and two brothers also survive.

Life Or Death Near For Deer

The last two weeks of March will mean life or death for thousands of Michigan deer. Absence of a severe cold spell or a big storm—life. Death, however, should either of these occur.

This is the way biologists of the Conservation Department view the general deer situation on the tail end of one of the most severe winters in many years.

Animals in the west end of the Upper Peninsula and in the Lake Superior watershed remain confined to heavily-browsed deeryards by snow three feet deep in many places. Here, starvation losses could be quite severe. In the remainder of the Upper Peninsula, however, winter losses could be light, if the spring is mild.

Tax Reform In Schools Urged

James F. O'Neil, member of the State Board of Education, called for spending reform as well as tax reform at an area-wide conference on "Fiscal Reform for Quality Education" at Ferndale High School, Mar. 16.

O'Neil stated that spending reform should include a greater utilization of educational resources at all levels of education with serious consideration given to the year-around utilization of teachers and schools.

O'Neil stated that the year-around utilization of teachers and schools would not only save the expense of building new schools, but it would also improve the quality of education. He listed the following advantages:

1. Reduction of property taxes which are at an all-time high and have reached the oppressive level generally and specifically in regard to our senior citizens with their limited income.

2. Provide for the more efficient utilization of our educational resources, which is a

Dory Trip To England Ends After 15 Miles Of Rowing

GLoucester, Mass. (AP) — A retired truckdriver and his son began a 3,200-mile row to England in a 16 foot dory Friday. After 15 miles and 6½ hours they turned back.

"I just want to go home and hide under a rug," Lewis C. Mills, 54, said after coming ashore.

Mills and his son, Lewis Jr., 21, climbed aboard a Coast Guard rescue boat as they entered Gloucester harbor on their return trip and their boat was towed ashore.

"The seas weren't too rough," Mills said. "The trouble was that we were loaded too heavy and we started taking in water."

"It was freezing in the boat faster than we could bail it out," he said.

Temperatures were in the teens during the day and the Weather Bureau had issued small craft warnings.

Mills said he and his son got as far as Thatcher's Island after leaving the harbor in the morning.

"Then we were in one spot for four hours and I finally said, 'The hell with it' and we started back."

Mills said he and his son might try again "when it gets warmer. If we both go together, I'll have to sell the dory and get alone and be able to use the a bigger boat. Maybe I'll go dory."

Someone asked him if he intended to have a stiff drink when he returned to his house.

"Yeah, I'm going to get a big belt when I get home — from my wife," he said.

"The hell with it" and we started back."

Airline Staff Get Shamrocks

Harold C. (Pat) Hayes, owner of the House of Ludington, celebrated St. Patrick's Day Friday evening by hosting a dinner party for 38 Peninsula Air Transport officials, fliers and friends. "You'll note," he said that the airline's nickname is "PAT!"

"PAT is opening up a new future of airline service for the Upper Peninsula," said Hayes in welcoming his guests "and I want to help make you all feel welcome."

Guests introduced by Ralph Norton, president of Peninsula Air Transport Co., included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bogert from South St. Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Roush from Omaha.

Bogert is with Wallston Aviation which handles the Cessna airlines flown by PAT and Roush is a multi-engine specialist for Cessna.

PAT, explained Jon Thorin, general manager, has brought four families to Escanaba to staff its inter-peninsula air service, and is bringing a fifth. The guests included Captains Philip Cook, formerly of Duluth, and Rodman Carey, formerly of Aurora, Ill., and their wives, and co-pilots George Landolt, formerly of Green Bay and James Andrews, formerly of Grand Rapids, Minn., and their wives. Coming soon is Gordon Templeton of Minneapolis an IA (inspector authorized) who'll be in charge of maintenance.

3. Alleviate the critical shortage of teachers by utilizing those in the system on a 12-month basis rather than the present 9-month basis.

4. Reduce the number of dropouts by preventing a child from getting hopelessly behind in his or her school work before they have an opportunity to make up their deficiency.

5. Reduce juvenile delinquency by substantially reducing the 45 to 50 million children shovled on the streets every summer.

6. Pay teachers more adequately as a result of being able to pay them on a 12-month basis rather than the present 9-month basis.

O'Neil said that the major objection to utilizing the teachers and schools on a 12-month basis were the parents and children who prefer the traditional summer vacations. He said that this tradition, established out of need when we were an agricultural society, is a luxury we can no longer afford. He called on all those associated with education, and particularly school boards and administrators, to give the proposal serious study. He pointed out that this proposal would provide the taxpayers an alternative to increased taxes.

Recreational Moxie

No study of business opportunity in the Upper Peninsula ever had as much time and money spent on it as the UPCA-sponsored inquiry into tourism. The Economic Development Administration (actually its predecessor, Area Redevelopment Administration started it) was the financial agent and Michigan State University was in charge.

The years of work resulted in a thick book reporting recommendations and it had an auspicious launching at the Mather Inn in January with prestigious MSU President John A. Hannah and Prof. Henry Barbour, head of the MSU hotel school, as spokesmen.

The report said, in effect: "U. P.: You've got it made!" As soon as you make it, that is. In other words; that the Upper Peninsula has the things which nature can supply to make a great recreation area, and that what's needed now to realize this potential is organization to develop a series of recreational complexes.

They would give the Upper Peninsula a new character and a new image and the Midwest — and the Nation — would think of the U. P. when it started vacation planning as one of the areas that it should certainly visit sometime. And when the tourists came they would find the Peninsula's natural attractions easily accessible and attractively interpreted, its history laid out so that the tour would be a fascinating look back into the opening of the West here in the 17th century. There would be entertainments and instruction and much that the visitor would find distinctive and unique.

But the recreational development package didn't come with any seeds in it. It will be up to the Upper Peninsula as a whole and to the areas which are to be the sites for the recreational complexes to start the buildings.

This is a big ball to toss into the game; the biggest one that has ever been tossed into any U. P. civic efforts game. Area development has never been challenged as ambitiously.

And after a pause — no doubt while people were getting their breath back — action is proposed in several quarters.

The Rev. Fr. Louis Cappel, chairman of the Economic Planning and Development Committee of UPCA (Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress), reports that his committee will recommend to the delegate body of UPCA at its March 21 meeting in Marquette that it push the creation of a Peninsula-wide group to set up a U.P. recreational development agency. This agency would implement the MSU plan for the recreational complexes.

And at the same time President Jack English of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association announces that that organization has whittled down its chronic debt to a small amount which will be wiped out by the end of the fiscal year on July 1. This is being done to clear UMTA's decks for action and one of the first actions it proposes in its new prestige and fighting trim is to promote new tourist attractions. Jim Gooch and Ray Gunnerson of MSU presented the MSU report to UMTA directors at their last meeting.

There seems to be a general feeling that the project is such a huge one that these agencies shouldn't tackle it alone, but that they should certainly have major roles in the sponsoring agency, which should include all elements concerned with Peninsula economic growth and able to make a contribution to it.

The U. P. will be hearing a great deal of this project in the months ahead. It is the sort of thing that every area of the U. P. can get excited about, because there's something for everyone in it, a local project to bring local benefits and also to fit into a Peninsula-wide complex to occupy the visitor who has a week or two to spend up here near Gitchee Gumee.

Alaska Hospitality

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Bond had been put up by the grandfather of Stanley Turley, present speaker of the Arizona House, who was sitting close to Romney of Michigan.

At Anchorage, Alaska, the large press corps traveling with the governor was treated to a luncheon of Alaskan delicacies from some of the state's spots as Nome, Nunavak Island, Ketikan.

The fare laid out on the buffet table was intriguing, if occasionally a bit puzzling. Included were such items as pickled beluga whale's tails, moose, caribou, something called mukluk (a fatty delicacy), reindeer and bear.

The visiting reporters smiled bravely as they sampled the more exotic items under the watchful eyes of their hosts.

Friendly Idaho Republicans pressed a number of gifts on Romney in his day and a half in their state—including an Indian hat and a piece of land.

His hosts at a GOP luncheon in Idaho Falls gave him the land, one saying:

"This is very near some of our best land... this is what is on it now (he held up a bit of sagebrush)... now, Governor, if you will just leave your name and address for the tax collector, everything will be in order."

On his swing through the mountainous West, George Romney was never far from territory where he had relatives or other links to his Mormon background.

Even in Barry Goldwater's Arizona, Mormons represent roughly 10 per cent of the total population. Romney recalled some of their—and his—earlier history when he addressed the Arizona Legislature in Phoenix.

He told the lawmakers that his father, Gaskell Romney, had to leave Arizona and cross into Mexico with other beleaguered Mormons who faced jail for practicing their religion.

Public Has Role In Fair Trial Ruling

By RICHARD L. MILLIMAN of Panax Newspapers

LANSING — But what about the public?

This can be one logical reaction to developments last week wherein Michigan State Police head Col. Frederick E. Davids spelled out stringent guidelines on news coverage of crime, only to have them suspended immediately after conferences with Governor Romney and Frank Kelley, attorney general.

Davids laid down his rules for police conduct which would permit state police to tell reporters in essence only that a crime had been committed. Details of evidence and progress of solving the case would be withheld.

Davids acted to protect police cases from recent Supreme Court rulings, which weigh heavily on the side of individual rights of anyone accused of committing a crime.

Too much information, or at the wrong time, or in the wrong way, can violate the rights of the accused, under this strain of court reasoning. Several defendants — some celebrated like Dr. Sam Sheppard, and some not so famous — have been freed or retried under this line of judicial reasoning.

Davids said the guidelines were prepared "to avoid any claims of prejudice and unconstitutional procedures that would free suspects even though the police are convinced they are guilty."

He added: "I know we can get murdered on this. But I would just like a fair shake. It's the police department that gets kicked in the head when you release too much information. We're just hungry for some guidelines."

Davids said his rules would not be binding on local police departments. But it is fairly certain most local forces would adopt rules at least as stringent as Davids' in paring out information to the press. Most conscientious local police officers feel just as constrained as Davids' state police feel while pursuing their police work under current conditions.

Davids claimed most of his guidelines "merely restate past policy... I don't think things will be much different than they have been." He also claimed that in some places, news media could even get more information than they have been able to obtain in the past.

This may well be true, especially in some areas where local police departments have a protective attitude about their communities and refuse to divulge even legitimate information that might reflect disparagingly about the community.

The problem here goes far beyond the surface fact of whether news media will be given access to information about crimes, or about how the media use the information once they have it.

There is little question in most newspaper circles that some of the Cleveland media acted irresponsibly in the Sheppard case, for instance. Lurid and speculative presentation of crime news is part of the way of life in some other locales, too.

But by and large, newspapers and their electronic brethren attempt to do a fair and unbiased job of presenting news about crime as well as other aspects of community activity.

The basic problem, in some views, is the balance of the rights of an individual as a suspect in a crime case, and the rights of an individual as a member of the general public.

To many observers, it appears that the court decisions have leaned over backwards to respect the individual rights of the suspect, and in so doing, have subjugated the rights of the individual who leads a law-abiding existence.

For example, this reasoning goes, doesn't the ordinary suspect individual have the right to know something of the nature of a crime — as well as the fundamental fact of the existence of a crime — so that he might protect himself and his family from similar circumstances? So that he may be aware of the extent of the danger that may exist to him and his family, if indeed any does exist? So that he might judge the actions of the police in the case, since after all the police as public officials are his employees?

What exactly are the rights of the non-accused individual when a crime is committed? Under present court interpretation, apparently these rights are pretty minuscule.

The fundamental problem, under this line of reasoning, rests not with the police but rather with the judicial reasoning which has barricaded the personal rights of the individual who is accused of crime.

The police, through Davids' regulations and through other activities that have appeared in different localities from time to time, appear to be seeking ways to operate effectively within the limitations court decisions have imposed.

The Davids' blackout, however, appears to be whittling away even further at the rights of the non-accused rather than reinforcing them.

Also to be kept in focus in this complex situation is the proper role of the news media. Freedom of the press is constitutionally guaranteed in this country. But the press is protected not as an entity in itself but as an agent of the people.

When information is withheld from the press — as it would be under Col. Davids' guidelines — it is withheld from the man in the street. The press is a conduit... a means and not an end.

When a newsman chases a fire, or covers a city council meeting, or digs into a crime, he acts as an agent of the public and not as an agent unto himself or his newspaper.

So when government officials meet in private, and exclude the press from their deliberations and from their actions, they are instead shutting out the public.

Of course, some news media adopt the attitude that the newspaper or the station is a self-contained sacred instrument, and disregard their proper role as the people's agent.

But most of the press takes very seriously its constitutional freedom and fights very hard for freedom of the press because it is the people — not the press itself — who have the right to know.

They react strongly to curbs on public information because they see them as violating the people's right to know.

In addition, they see curbs such as Col. Davids' as a chipping away at this right which logically could extend next — little by little — to other areas of government.

The people are safer when the press keeps a wary eye and when that eye focused on government is not blinded by a government-installed curtain.

Dean Evans, head of the conservatory of music at Lawrence University and well-known musician, appeared in a recital here recently. The program was one of a series arranged by the Escanaba Music Club.

During the last few weeks, Escanaba businessmen have worked on a campaign to get Escanabans to increase the consumption of home-made cigars. The movement was successful. Cigar manufacturers are swamped with extra work.

When To Pre-empt At Four Level

The opening bid of four is even more pre-emptive than the bid of three. It also should be a substantially better hand. This is because, somehow or other, three-level pre-empt is seldom doubled while four level pre-empt is frequently are.

Thus when we open with a four bid we don't have 10 tricks in our own hand but we do have a hand that is almost surely going to make eight tricks by itself and that has some compensating values.

In first or second seat we would open four spades irrespective of vulnerability with: Spades—A K Q 10 8 7 6, H—2, D—Q J 10 2, C—2. We would not open four spades with: Spades—A K Q J 10 9 8, H—2, D—7 6, C—8 4.

The first hand is likely to make four spades if partner can give us one trick. The latter won't make four spades unless partner can give us three.

We have another rule for four-level pre-empt. We never have more than one ace and, if our partner has passed, we do not ever have solid trumps and a void suit.

Today's hand shows the advantage of this hard and fast rule. South had a normal four-spade opening. North looked over his big hand and decided that South might well hold two aces. Therefore, North bid four no-trump. When South bid five diamonds to show one ace, North signed off at five spades but they were one trick too high.

West opened the ace of diamonds and shifted to the queen of hearts. East took two heart tricks and game and rubber had been thrown out the window.

A—Bid three no-trump.
There is no reason to try for a slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of rebidding two no-trump your partner rebids to three spades. What do you do now?

Plan Reclamation Of Salem Harbor

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — Salem harbor, a privateering and merchant port in the early 1800s that brought fortunes to New England sea captains, will be reclaimed from mud as part of the Salem maritime national historic site.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has called for bids for a dredging operation and the national park service, plans a warehouse for examples from cargoes of that time.

Ann Landers

Give Hubby Choice; You Or His Sister

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't you get with it and knock off the nonsense about childbirth? If I read one more letter in your column from a mother who says having a baby is just like a little tummyache I think I will throw up.

Some women could give birth to an elephant and not feel a thing. Other women have a very rough time and it goes on and on and on — yes, even with the wonderful new sedatives and pain killers.

You should tell your readers the truth — that no two deliveries are the same; that every woman is different, physically, emotionally and psychologically; that her mother's approach to childbirth will have a definite effect on her attitude; that it can be a big help if she gets a good doctor. So enough of the hokey already, Ann Landers. Thank you — TWO FEET ON THE GROUND

Dear Feet: I would not dispute a single word of your letter. It is all true. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's unmarried sister moved to this country from overseas. Sara is a medical doctor. I was overjoyed when I learned she was coming and invited her to live with us.

After a few months Sara became withdrawn and uncommunicative. When she refused to leave her bed we wrote to a sister overseas and learned that she is mentally ill and has been for a long time.

Sara sleeps in our living room and is ruining our marriage. All she does is read medical books and write letters to President Johnson complaining about the hospitals in America and how they abuse patients and employees.

We are people of modest means and are deeply concerned about the huge bills she has run up all over town. (My husband vouches for her.)

Sara will not see a psychiatrist and insists there is nothing wrong with her. In the meantime she hasn't been out of her nightgown in six weeks and I am going crazy. What shall I do? — MARGARET

Dear Margaret: It is up to your husband to call in some doctors. If they decide his sister should be committed to a state mental hospital, and he refuses, give him a choice — you or his sister. And make it stick.

Dear Ann Landers: An aunt whom I dearly loved died several years ago. Her husband gave me her engagement ring and her wedding band because I was her favorite niece.

These two people had one of the most beautiful marriages I have ever witnessed. It would mean a great deal to me if I could use my aunt's ring for my own engagement and marriage. Some people feel it would be improper. I'd like your opinion — ENGAGED IN MIAMI

Dear Engaged: Since the wedding ring is a traditional part of the religious ceremony I feel it would be appropriate to use your aunt's wedding band and wear it thereafter provided of course that your husband-to-be agrees to the idea. The engagement ring is something different, however. Let your fiancé make a selection in keeping with HIS taste and HIS financial bracket. You can wear your aunt's ring as heirloom jewelry, but not as a symbol of your beloved's betrothal.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect from Marriage," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Assassination Inquiry Brings 1st Court Case

conspiracy and said, "I am completely innocent of any such charges."

The Warren Commission found that Oswald was the assassin of Kennedy, but the New Orleans judges refused to admit the commission's report as evidence in the hearing.

"This report is fraught with hearsay. Hearsay four or five times removed," Judge Bagert said Wednesday in announcing the 2-1 vote on rejecting the commission's findings.

Two Witnesses

Garrison produced two witnesses who linked Shaw and Oswald, New Orleans born ex-Marine who defected to the Soviet Union, then returned after three years.

Oswald, the Warren report documented, was in New Orleans from early April 1963 until Sept. 25, 1963.

Vernon Bundy, 29, an admitted narcotics addict, walked over to Shaw in court Friday and put his hand over the accused's head, identifying him as the man he saw with Oswald here on the Lake Pontchartrain seawall.

Neither Bundy nor Russo testified before the Warren Commission. They were not questioned by federal agents in the case, either.

FBI Cleared Shaw

U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said Shaw was investigated by the FBI and cleared of any part in the assassination. Shaw said earlier this month he was not aware of any FBI probe of his activities.

Ferris gave a statement to the FBI shortly after the assassination. Garrison had arrested him briefly three days after the slaying in Dallas.

The Warren Commission said it had found no evidence that Oswald was involved with any person or group in a conspiracy, but it noted: "Because of the difficulty of proving negatives to a certainty the possibility of others being involved... cannot be established categorically."

The court released Shaw on his present $10,000 bond which Shaw posted several hours after his March 1 arrest by Garrison.

Witness Hypnotized

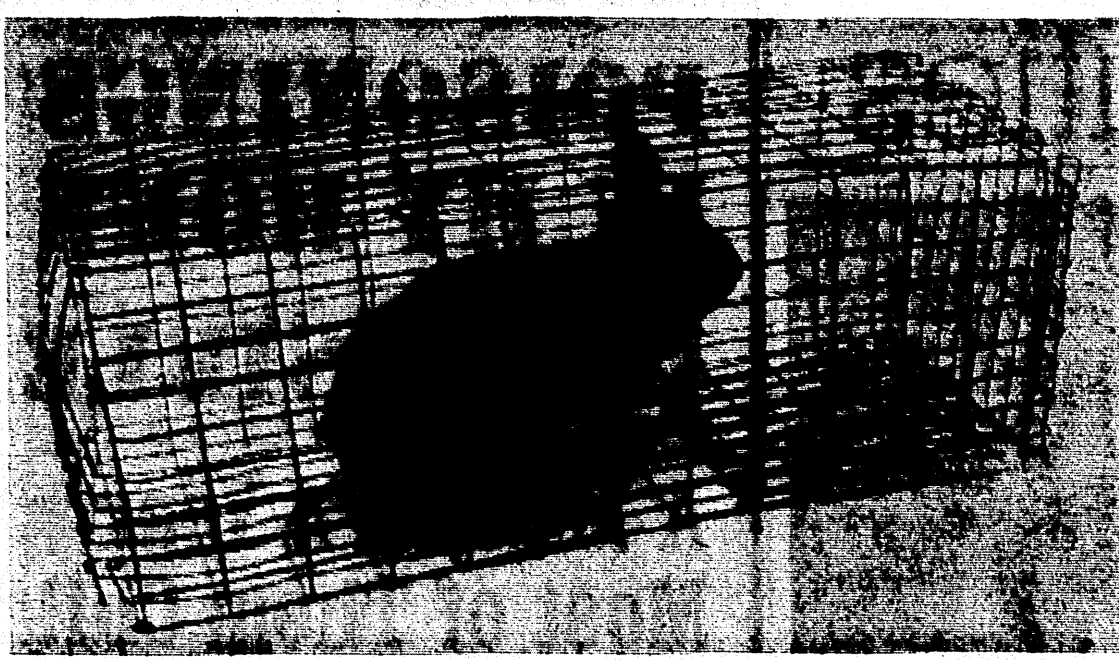

Russo said he knew Oswald as "Leon Oswald" and Shaw as "Clem Bertrand."

Russo admitted he had been hypnotized three times while being interrogated by Garrison's aides.

Dr. Edmond Fatter, a physician and hypnosis expert, testified Friday he had given Russo a post hypnotic suggestion "to present the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth and to be calm, cool and collected."

Shaw's attorneys filed more than 50 formal exceptions during the hearing, laying the groundwork for possible appeals. The exhaustive testimony on hypnosis and use of sodium pentothal — the so-called truth serum — drew a continuing stream of defense objections.

Such testimony, argued defense attorney F. Irving Dymond, would not be permitted in a trial. He said the prosecution was trying "to slip it in the back door" by getting it into the record of the preliminary hearing.

THIS IS ONE of the rabbits caught by Bernard Schultz this week and liberated near Danforth. The other picture was taken from a window of his home at 314 S. 3rd St. of a rabbit eating on barberry bushes in his yard.

Oh, My Aching Shrubbery

Peter Rabbit Is Villain

By JEAN WORTH

Bernard Schultz, the Press's photographer-engraver, and I estimate that Escanaba has a wild rabbit population of about 3,000. Residents are tolerant of the rabbits, except when they level a bed of tulips or create some other such garden or flower bed havoc overnight.

Then there's a call to the Conservation Department and its obliging officers come running with a trap, if they have any left after answering a lot of similar calls.

We're not supposed to kill the state's wildlife except in the hunting season, but the garbagemen will tell you that there is some illegal backyard killing and there's also an aroma of hasenpfeffer in the kitchens of some homes that are circled by rabbit tracks.

Bernie took the accompanying photo of a rabbit eating his barberry bush from a window of his home this week. He's since caught the rabbit, and its mate, in his live trap and liberated them near Danforth. It brings his trapping tally to 7. I have caught a dozen or more in recent years, but this winter my live trap has been covered by a snowdrift and the rabbits have been conducting an eat-out at our house on Lake Shore Drive.

I enlisted the Conservation Department's aid and Officer Frank Opolka provided me with literature on repellents — "Mix one gallon of alcohol with 7 pounds of resin, and brush on foliage, etc."

He also brought three spring traps which I set where the traffic was heaviest, and I mean like Times Square, man. Jim Walker, the conservation officer, took away the first rabbit when my wife called for help in my absence. The second one caught was picked up by an Arctic owl, which flew up on our house top with it, killed it and flew off with it and the trap.

Don Ness, our neighbor, has a puppy and I was fearful that it would get into a trap so I pulled them up and only set them at night. I caught a cat. It cooperated and I freed it from the trap and then I pulled up my trapline because we have skunks in our neighborhood too.

While we were dining one night I said to my wife, "Look, there's the solution — a red fox!"

"It's a dog," she said. But seen through binoculars it was a fox. We've seen it several times since, but the rabbits are still running a lunch counter on our vines and foundation plantings every night.

When our children were small and I read them "Peter Rabbit" I used to think that Farmer McGregor, in whose garden Peter had his meals, was a mean old man. But I don't think so any more.

Business Counsel Continued By EDA

Approval of $163,900 to finance the fourth year's operation of a business counseling service in 33 northern Michigan counties was announced today by the Economic Development Administration. The funds will go to the Center for Economic Expansion and Technical Assistance, Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant. The center has been in operation since July 1, 1963 at a cost thus far of $337,901.

Continuation of the program was requested by the Northern Michigan Development Council of Cheboygan. The council notes that the 33-county area served by the center has not kept pace with the economic growth of the Nation, largely because of the decline of the lumbering industry.

Milk Prices To Be Maintained Through July

CLEVELAND — The Great Lakes Milk Marketing Federation announces that prices for milk for bottling purposes in all markets served by its dairy farmer members will be maintained at present negotiated levels effective April 1.

The pricing structure will stand through July.

The Great Lakes Milk Marketing Federation is the bargaining arm for 18 dairy farmer cooperatives having a total membership of more than 30,000 individuals producing more than 25 million pounds of milk a day.

Markets served by Great Lakes are in eight states including Michigan.

Great Lakes Federation President Glenn Lake, a dairy farmer in North Branch, Mich., said the prices are substantially above last year; they will avoid seasonal declines and are the maximum possible under present marketing conditions.

Southern Michigan dairy farmers can expect to receive about $5.44 per hundredweight (48 1/2 quarts) for base milk sold in the next four months, Michigan Milk Producers Association said today. The base price, paid on nearly all of the milk sold in Southern Michigan, will average about 65 cents per hundredweight higher than last year.

Home Poisoning Prevention Urged

Pharmacists throughout Michigan are participating in a public education program on poison prevention and preparedness in case of an accidental poisoning, announces Robert C. Johnson, executive director of the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association. Reported incidents verify there are over one million home poisonings in the United States a year, of which, more than half a million are children under five years of age. Approximately 500 of these victims die!

Common household substances such as aspirin, soaps, detergents and bleach accounted for over 33 per cent of the 1965 accidental ingestions in children.

Poison Antidote Kit Immediate availability of an antidote in the home in case of an accident poisoning can be the crucial difference between life or death, said Johnson. Because of this, the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association initiated a Poison Antidote Kit (PAK) program in 1966 in National Poison Prevention Week. The program won widespread acceptance and thousands of the kits have been distributed to Michigan families. National recognition was given PAK in the form of the Public Education Award presented by the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Ask Your Pharmacist The PAK is available from participating pharmacists as a public service of the pharmaceutical profession. "Parents should ask their community pharmacist for a PAK and keep it on hand for use in case of a poisoning emergency," suggested Johnson.

PAK consists of a durable, easily-discernable plastic box containing two therapeutically recognized, unit-dose antidotes - Syrup of Ipecac and Activated Charcoal.

It was the unanimous recommendation of the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Association of Poison Control Centers, the American Medical Advisory Board of the Medical Advisory Board of the Food and Drug Administration that Ipecac Syrup should be readily available in the household for emergency treatment of poisonings.

Syrup of Ipecac is advised when it is desirable for the patient to vomit. In most cases, such removal of the poison from the stomach is the proper treatment. In some cases, however, for example when a gasoline product has been swallowed, vomiting should not be caused. In such cases, the other product in the PAK, Activated Charcoal, is to be administered.

Call Physician First Before either antidote is administered to the patient, the physician or hospital poison information center should be contacted for specific instructions. The parent should have the poison container at hand when calling for instructions, since important label information may be needed. Physicians have lent their endorsement to the program through their professional societies.

The MSPA plans pharmacists support for this program on a year-round basis. It urges parents to recognize the year-round aspects of poison prevention need by educating their children to the hazards of poisoning and by obtaining a PAK for emergency use.

POISONINGS IN MY HOME? IMPOSSIBLE?

A Million A Year Most of Them Children

Before you say it's impossible for a child to be poisoned in your home, think about how many times you have known children to accomplish the "impossible." Don't underestimate their ability to crawl, climb, or reach almost anywhere.

Don't just say you're sure. Be sure. Allow for the "impossible" when handling and storing aspirins and other medicines, as well as all commonly-used household products.

Retirement Plan Creates 30,000 New Auto Jobs

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union estimated today that roughly 30,000 new jobs were created in the first 16 months of early retirement programs negotiated with the nation's automakers and their suppliers.

Additionally, the union said early retirement by older workers had made more secure the jobs of younger, lower-seniority employees.

In making the estimate, the UAW used figures from Chrysler Corp., where 4,417 have taken early retirement since Sept. 1, 1965, when pensions of up to $400 monthly became available at age 60.

In each year, the UAW figures showed a 1,000 per cent gain over pre-1964 levels of retirement at Chrysler.

The union said figures are not yet available from General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., other and larger members of the automotive Big Three.

Besides the 4,417 who took early retirement at Chrysler through the end of 1966, the UAW showed 1,527 took normal retirement at age 65, compared with 1,065 for the full years 1963 and 1964.

In current three-year contracts negotiated in 1964, normal pension payments were hiked from $2.80 monthly for each year of service to $4.25 monthly. Service of at least 10 years is required to qualify for any pension.

Under the early retirement program it is possible for a worker with 30 years service making $3.30 or more hourly to retire at 60 on $400 a month.

The current average hourly wage within the auto industry as a whole is $3.36.

Douglas Fraser, the UAW's Chrysler Department director, said the average early retiree at Chrysler was drawing a pension of $350 monthly. Early retirement is possible at age 55, but workers below 60 qualify for a lesser amount than those 60 and over.

MSU Students Get Rights Bill

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University students have received a bill of rights, day, guaranteeing their right to disagree with an instructor's views, to "good-faith" grading and to privacy of record.

Students at Oakland University, meanwhile, received the power to elect three student members to the 47-member University Senate, an important policy making body.

Approval of the MSU bill of rights and of a new constitution for Oakland came from the MSU Board of Trustees, which governs both schools.

The MSU student rights document, besides spelling out rights and responsibilities for students, provides for a university ombudsman to help students cut through red tape and settle their complaints quickly.

The proposal is the result of more than one year's work by the faculty committee of student affairs and the academic council at MSU.

The work was prompted in part by a wave of student demonstrations around the country, a committee spokesman said when work began.

The bill limits university regulations to only those for which a need is demonstrated "reasonably related to the basic purposes and necessities of the university."

Students are to be given a voice in formulating regulations governing their conduct and can appeal any regulation which they feel is inconsistent with the bill.

In other business, the MSU trustees accepted gifts and grants totaling $3 million.

Auto Production Pace Moved Up

DETROIT (AP)—The nation's auto industry shifted out of low gear this week, moving its production pace to the fastest rate in two months.

Automotive News reported that production rose to 163,000 units, surpassing last week's 158,523. The total was short, however, of the 199,813 units turned out in the corresponding week a year ago.

So far this calendar year, automakers have produced 1,363,310 cars, compared with 2,142,122 for the same period of 1966.

Truck production also stepped up this week, with schedules calling for 35,262 vehicles. Last week, 34,075 trucks rolled off the assembly lines. A year ago, the industry turned out 37,895.

State Reviews Draft Boards

LANSING (AP) — To prevent any possible complaints of racial discrimination, Michigan has increased efforts to make sure minority groups are represented on draft boards, an official said here.

Col. W. J. Myers, deputy state Selective Service director, said Michigan had no particular problems in this area but "to offset any possible criticism, we are reviewing the makeup of the boards."

Michigan continually has tried to make draft boards as representative as possible of the communities in which they operate, Myers said.

But, he said, the report of the President's Commission on Selective Service added emphasis to this policy, and "we're adding more (minority representatives) in a shorter period than in the past."

About one-fifth of Michigan's 132 draft boards now have Negro representatives, he said.

Asked about reports that draft officials in 10 Michigan cities had been instructed to include qualified Negro members on local boards, Myers said there had been no directives from Washington to Lansing, or from Lansing to local boards on the subject.

He said Michigan Selective Service field officers, in their routine contacts with local boards, ask for nominations of qualified minority group representatives.

Board members must be at least 30 years old and residents of the county in which the board operates. Nominations go through the state office and final appointments are made by the president, Myers said.

Most Michigan boards have five members, with an average age of 35, he said.

In some cases, he said, minority group members are filling vacancies on the boards and in some cases boards are being expanded to include them.

Board members are not paid, Myers added, and "it is difficult to find good board members who can spend all the time needed."

Call Rehearing On ABC-ITT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission will take another look later this month at the proposed $2-billion merger of American Broadcasting Companies Inc. and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

The FCC set new hearings on the merger for March 27 after voting 4 to 0 — with three members abstaining — to reconsider the consolidation it approved 4 to 3 Dec. 21.

Chairman Rosel H. Hyde, who originally voted for the merger, switched sides Thursday to join the three original opponents and force the rehearing. The three original backers of the proposal abstained from Thursday's vote.

The FCC's action came at the request of the Justice Department, which charged the commission acted too hastily in approving the merger and did not adequately consider all the evidence the department claims it has unearthed.
